

Tasmania's native forests

building our world –
driving our economy

Tim McDevitt
Home builder

I build homes for Tasmanian families and I'm proud to work with high-grade Tasmanian native timbers.

While we can use plantation timber for some work, we need harder, more even and higher quality timber for flooring, weatherboards, window frames, skirtings and the like.

That's where our native forest timbers come into their own.

I employ Tasmanian tradespeople building homes for Tasmanians using timbers from our native forests.

Without it, we're out of business and out of jobs.
