

WOOD

Good for reducing CO₂

The average car, driving 25,000 kilometres a year, emits 4.5 tonnes of CO₂.¹

Twice this amount is saved each time you choose a timber floor instead of concrete.²

Wood plays a major role in combating climate change. Greater use of wood products will stimulate the expansion of Australia's forests and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Forest Industries Association of Tasmania

Ph: (03) 6224 1033
www.fiatas.com.au

1 www.environment.gov.au/settlements/challenge/members/greenhousetips.html#transporttips
www.greenvehicleguide.gov.au

2 Cooperative Research Centre for Greenhouse Accounting